AMERICAN LEGION MEETING

Post Commander Elected at Meeting Held Monday Evening.
Committee Appointed to Plan for Ball to be Held April 19

The election of a post commander, the choice of a committee to raise funds, and other important business was transacted at a meeting of Andover Post No. 8, American Legion, which was held at the Post rooms on Monday evening.

In the absence of the commander and vice-commander, Philip W. Thomson was elected temporary chairman, and the meeting was opened with the reading of the resignation of Commander Edward R. Lawson. This resignation was accepted and a vote of appreciation for the three months' service was unanimous.

Paul M. Cheney was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Cheney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Cheney of Maple avenue and served overseas with the Yankee Division going to France in the headquarters company of the 102nd F. A. He was gassed at Seicheprey and after discharge at the hospital was sent to Brigade headquarters of the 55th F. A., 30th Division. During the Chateau Thierry fight he was badly shell-shocked and virtually incapacitated.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

Fifty Andover Women Take a Course in Conversational French. Certificates Awarded to Students Completing Courses

The November Club House in Andover became the classroom for a course in conversational French four months ago, when fifty Andover ladies enrolled in this course offered by the division of university extension. Since then, on Thursday afternoons when the Phillips Chapel bells are tolling the boys to classes on the hill, and the Abbot girls are busy preparing Friday's lessons, the wives and daughters of Andover business men and Phillips professors, as well as several members of the Pynchard High School faculty, have settled down for a serious hour of study quite in the manner of academy students.

The class was divided into two sections after its organization as the enrollment soon increased appreciably.

Evening Service Popular

A large congregation gathered at the Free church last Sunday evening when Rev. Arthur Stanley Wheelock gave the second in a series of addresses on "How Great Men Found and Served God." The special subject for the evening was "The Recovery of Augustine."

The meeting opened with a fifteen-minute praise service and the congregation joined heartily in the singing of familiar hymns led by a large chorus choir. Miss Ballantyne of Lawrence was the soloist and rendered "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Little and "Just for Today" by Jane Abbott.

Christ Church Notes

The Rev. Edmund A. Lee is coming from the Church Missions House in New York to preach at St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, on Sunday afternoon. We are fortunate to be able to secure him in Christ Church, as the preacher at the 10.30 o'clock service on Sunday. He has been at work in Ankers, China.

The services in Holy Week will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Owing to the recent illness of the rector, it has been deemed wise to omit those on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

At the evening service in Christ church on Sunday, when both choirs will sing, it is expected that the Rev. Ralph M. Harper of St. John's, Wintthrop, will preach. His "letters" in the "Living Church" are always of interest to Massachusetts readers.

The regular weekly meeting of the Woman's Guild will be omitted this week.

April 8th there will be a business meeting with election of officers. Will ladies who have assignment sewing out please leave it with Mrs. Henry by April 7th.

On April 8th the missionary barrel will be packed and sent off. An invitation is extended to all to contribute anything suitable, second hand clothing and bits of cloth for patch work being particularly desirable. It is desirable that all contributions be left at Mrs. Henry's by April 7th.

Prints at John-Esther Gallery.

The exhibition illustrating different kinds of prints will be opened tomorrow at the John-Esther Gallery of Abbot Academy. Examples will be displayed of wood-cuts by Albrecht Durer, wood-engraving, stipple and burin work, mezzotints and aquatints, etchings, dry-points and lithographs.

It is interesting to see what variation in quality of tone come from the use of different instruments, materials and methods. The velvety blacks of the drypoints, the clearly defined textures of satir and woolen folds in the engravings, the rich, shadowy backgrounds of the mezzotint portraits, are a revelation to the amateur who has not realized the resources of the artist in black and white.

One group of pictures alone would be worth going to see, the fine set of wood-engravings by Timothy Cole, who has been making careful, appreciative reproductions of the old masters for many years. These are familiar to many from their appearance in the Century Magazine from time to time. Mr. Cole and Henry Wolf have been leaders in the revival of wood-engraving in this country.

Other artists included in the exhibition include Goya, Applan, Haden, Hassam and Pennell. Three striking etchings in color are by Seneseny.

The prints are from Frederick Keppel and Company, and may be purchased. They will be on exhibition for several weeks. The hours are from two until five o'clock on Saturday afternoons.

Mothers' Club Notes

About thirty-eight members of the Mothers' Club and their friends were guests of the Hood Milk Company in Lawrence on Thursday. Free transportation was provided and a very interesting afternoon was spent in listening to a lecture on the value of milk as a food, and inspecting Hood plant. Refreshments were served.

On April 7th, Dr. Lily Owen, Burbank will address the Mothers' Club on "The Parents' Responsibility to the Adolescent Child." The Bradlee Mothers' Club will be the guests of the Andover Mothers' Club and the public is also cordially invited.

Joint Meeting Tonight

A joint meeting of Walter L. Raymond Camp, 111 S. of V., and the Camp Auxiliary will be held tonight in G. A. R. hall and as business of great importance will be transacted a full attendance is urged. A collation will be served.

DIOCESAN CENTRE PLAN

Local Women Arrange to Help Raise Funds for Finely Equipped Building in Boston, Approved by Cardinal O'Connell

The League of Catholic Women is working to establish a Diocesan Centre in Boston. Every woman in the diocese is asked to help. Cardinal O'Connell has given the project his enthusiastic support. Each district in Boston and other cities will be represented by a special booth when the League of Catholic Women hold their bazaar in Symphony Hall the last week in April.

The Diocesan Centre is to be a modern club house having rooms for transients, reception, lecture and class rooms, and a cafeteria. It will draw to itself the concentrated activities of Catholic Women's Societies, clubs and guilds, and give from itself information and help, influence and encouragement to all who come under its far-reaching scope. It will be a vital force in forming of opinions, whether of domestic or civic nature.

Quite naturally women in Andover wish to have a part in this work. They are to raise money by holding an informal dance and whist in the town hall.

The Council to dismiss Rev. F. A. Wilson and to install Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock as pastor of the Free church, was called together on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock and organized with Rev. Herbert G. Mank of Lawrence as moderator, and Rev. Arthur S. Beale of Lowell as scribe. Nearly all the churches of the Andover Association were represented.

The records of the church read by George A. Christie, and those of the parish read by Harry A. Ramsdell, containing all votes and transactions concerning the resignation of Mr. Wilson and the issuance and acceptance of the call by Mr. Wheelock were approved as satisfactory in every particular. Mr. Wilson was asked to supplement the records by adding a few words in regard to laying down his work.

Mr. Wheelock then gave a very interesting account of the substance of his faith, indicating the confirmations and deepening of it by his experiences during the war in which he served through some of the severest engagements.

When the customary opportunity was given for asking questions there very few offered. The Council went into private session and spent nearly an hour considering some of the technical complications involved in the dis-

COPELEY

So great has been the success of "The Private Secretary" at the Copley Theatre that Henry Jewett has decided to keep this farce of Charles Hawtreys on for a second week. All this past week not only have the regular patrons of this playhouse been flocking to see this very funny piece but it has attracted many who perhaps had never before been in this theatre but who recalled the one or more pleasant evenings spent in the presence of "The Private Secretary" in years gone by. Many of the parts are played by the same persons who played them when the farce was previously given here, notably E. E. Clive as Rev. Robert Spaulding with his frequent "Do you know," and his arms full of belongings, goloshes, bags and all. The other members of the company, Miss Roach, Miss Newcombe, Miss Wingard and Miss Ediss, and Messrs. Wingfield, Waram, Leslie, Gracie, Watts, Matthews, Joy and Bradbury all contribute their full share toward making "The Private Secretary" one of the best entertainments seen at the Copley in a long time.

TREMONT

Next week will be the last of the engagement of "Dere Mable" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston. This big Marc Klaw musical production has been one of the season's most emphatic hits, mainly because of the delightful admixture of high-class comedy and a charming music score that elevates it to the high standard of entertainment which has made the Tremont Theatre one of Boston's most popular houses. There is a distinct and well defined plot to "Dere Mable," and while the hero is that same humorous Bill who was made popular in the Edward Streeter letters which gave title to the piece, he is seen in new surroundings as the returned hero.

Comedy is ever flowing swiftly and unceasingly throughout the show while the music by Rosamond Hodges possesses a delightful lilt and tunefulness that pleasantly greets the popular ear. There are a number of song hits that will surely be whistled and sung long after "Dere Mable" leaves these parts. Mr. Streeter collaborated with John Hodges in writing the book and lyrics.

In its big cast of funmakers, singers and dancers "Dere Mable" has that rare quality of having as near a perfect company as could be assembled. Louis Henson plays Bill in masterly manner, and his Scott Chum, Angus, is cleverly played by Robert Wyckoff. Fern Rogers is charming as Mable, and others in the cast include Elizabeth Hines, Janet Horton, Sidney Reynolds, Frank Wazman and Edwin Forsberg.

Seats will go on sale Tuesday, March 30th, and mail orders will be accepted now.

The Faithful Milkman

In the Labradorian rigors of this winter, the heroic qualities of many people have been revealed.

Our intrepid physicians, struggling through snowdrifts day and night to cure the sick and to ease the dying, have exhausted every resource of automobile, sleigh, of storniboots and of snowshoes.

The hardy truck drivers have plunged and skidded through ice and snow with their heavy loads, sometimes hopelessly stalled and starving on the lonely way, sleeping in our town jail or shivering in a barn upon the country road.

For these and many others, citations for bravery and notable efficiency ought to be issued; but there is a corporal's guard of indispensable and forgotten men, for whom I would like to speak a word of appreciation.

It is the faithful milkmen who have gone forth earliest in the zero mornings, who have broken paths through the snowdrifts in the face of driving storms, who have climbed around to our back doors, where no paths were dug, leaving every day their bottles of liquid food for the victims of the storm siege.

When we have reached out from our warm rooms to take the precious bottles, we have seen the evidence of the intense cold endured by these men; for we found the bottles shattered by the frozen milk, and columns of congealed cream pushing two inches out of the bottles, like the necks of clams reaching from their shells.

A most uncanny winter we have suffered, and have paid big bills for the services of some men; but to these milkmen for their life-and-death struggles with the storm on our behalf, we have paid but a penny or two at each home. It is a surprise, when we think of it, how rarely the milkman has failed us throughout our long and desperate winter.

We remember that the poet Stevenson loved Lerie the Lamplighter and longed to be, like him, a lamplighter on his daily round of benediction to the people; but the faithful milkman we believe will have a higher place in heaven than even Lerie the Lamplighter.

Andover Children Contribute

Parson Smith, Commissioner of Education of Massachusetts, says of "America's Gift to France":

"I certainly hope that the school children of Massachusetts will share with the other children of the nation the opportunity to learn of the proposed gift to France and to assist in the matter in such ways as local school authorities may find advisable."

Twenty million school children of the United States will have an unusual opportunity to reciprocate for the part the school children of France played in making possible Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty.

In accordance with this plan, the school children of Andover have brought their contributions (usually two cents) to their teachers and Superintendent Sanborn reports that he already has in hand $11.16 with several of the country schools yet to be heard from.

When France determined upon the Statue of Liberty as her expression of rejoicing at the hundredth anniversary of the independence of the United States, the children of France were called upon to show their love of America by giving what they could. Now, in turn, the opportunity has come to the children of America to show in a beautiful and unperishable symbol their love for France whose people have dared and suffered so heroically.

The sum of $250,000 will be needed for "America's Gift to France," and the members of the executive committee believe that the school children will wish to take a large part in the appealing project.

"One cent and upward" expresses the amount to be contributed. With 20,000,000 school children reached, it is expected that the purpose of "America's Gift to France" will go into that number of homes. The appeal for funds is in the form of a collection gathered March 22-27, in which as many Americans as is possible will participate. The purpose of the committee is to make the representation as wide as can be, and to ask for no large gift from anyone.

Frederick MacMonnies, the noted American sculptor, is now at work on the statue. It will be colossal in size, and of a group nature, but the final design has not been determined. The statue will be placed in the town of Meaux on a spot to be selected by Marshals Foch and Joffre. Meaux on the Marne is the highwater mark of the great German advance of 1914.

The local chairman is Burton S. Flagg, assisted by Superintendent of Schools Henry C. Sanborn and Frederick S. Boutwell.

JUST LEAVE IT TO TERRY

Harvard Authorities and Students Rely on Memory of Colored Human Encyclopedia.

No one knows how he does it. He doesn't know himself. Yet Terry never forgets a face or a name. He never took a memory course. He never did any special mental gymnastics to develop his memory. He has no theories on the association of ideas. He has no little tricks, such as remembering a man's name is Carpenter because he is built like a lath. He simply remembers, that's all.

Terry is a roly-poly little colored man who for 19 years has been the human encyclopedia of the recorder's office at Harvard college. Every Harvard man since 1900 knows Terry. The remarkable thing is that Terry knows every one of them. More than 10,000 men have come and gone in Terry's time. Terry remembers them all.

His extraordinary faculty for remembering names and places caused his being installed in the position of living encyclopedia, not only on all Harvard men, but on Harvard history generally. When members of the faculty want to know the date of the fire in Weld hall, or when the course Government 7B was started, or the names of the most recently elected overseers, or the score of the Harvard-Williams baseball game ten years ago, or any miscellaneous bit of Harvardiana, they don't take the time to look it up. They ask Terry. And Terry always knows.

LIKE EACH OTHER'S COMPANY

Stones Found in Nevada Seem to Have a Distinct Aversion to Being Separated.

In Nevada are found curious mineral specimens known as "sociable stones." No better name could be given them, since when a few are distributed over a level floor two or three feet apart they will begin to move toward one another to a common center with an alacrity that is ludicrous.

Campers first noticed these stones. They had used wrapping paper for a tablecloth and weighted the corners with some of the stones spread over the level top of a boulder. A few moments later one of the men noticed that the paper was flapping in the breeze and that the four or five stones were huddled in a group in the middle of the paper like a nest full of eggs.

He thought the wind was responsible, straightened them and added more stones. The next time he looked around the stones were back in the heap again. Once more he replaced the stones and sat down to watch them. They began to roll and hunch along toward one another again until they were in a pile.

"Who Wrote It?"

When Demetra Vaka, author of "Haremlik" and "In the Shadow of Islam," first came to America she was governess for a year to the two little grandsons of J. Fenimore Cooper. The children had been brought up with the utmost reverence for their famous grandfather, and had unconsciously imbibed the belief that all the world's best literature was the offspring of his pen.

Something was said in the elder boy's hearing one day about one of the books of the Bible, with some reference to its authorship, and the boy looked up at his governess with a startled face.

"Who wrote the Bible?" he demanded, as one whose first faith has been shaken.

Demetra Vaka explained as best as she could about the various books, and the boy sighed, still a bit incredulous. "I always thought," he said slowly, "that grandfather wrote it."

The Trend of the Times.

President Kroeze of Jamestown college was talking about the trend of the times.

"A minister," he said, "had a forcible reminder of the trend of the times the other day. His brother-in-law, a lawyer whom he'd always rather looked up to, hailed him and asked humbly for the loan of a two-dollar bill. The minister made it $1 and proceeded on his way. He had not gone far when an automobile stopped and his cousin, a horny-handed milk-wagon driver, whom he'd always looked down on as a poor relation and miserable failure, leaped out and asked him to get in and have a run out to Ye Village Inn roadhouse, where a very neat chicken and waffle luncheon was being served at five a plate."

Passing of a Pre-War Pet.

Nowadays, if you decided to make a present to your youngest nephew, you couldn't find a Japanese waltzing mouse in the country. It is true that their dervish dance is out of date in this age of shimmy shakers. But that doesn't account for their extinction. The war, which took so many lives, reached even to the mouse world. Breeders no longer raise these eccentric little creatures, according to Ed Honey, the bird and fish man. Perhaps they still live in Japan, where they are kept through immigration laws. But as far as this country goes, these busy pets of children are now but a memory.—Minneapolis Journal.

REFUGE SPOTS FOR ELOPERS

Fleet Prison and Gretna Green Were Highly Desirable Places in the Olden Time.

Gretna Green, whose chief industry was once matrimony, is a village in Scotland less than a mile from the River Sark, which marks the English-Scottish boundary line in that vicinity, near the Solway firth. The English marriage laws sent eloping couples to Scotland just as the divorce laws of 47 of our states make Reno desirable for would-be divorcees, and therein lies Gretna Green's first claim to fame.

Fleet prison was the figurative "Gretna Green" of England until the passage of the famous Hardwicke act of 1754, which made unauthorized marriages voidable. Gretna Green thereupon becoming the romance spot of the British Isles. All the Scottish law required was that two persons should declare their intention to be married in the presence of witnesses, and the British law then, as now, recognizes marriages as legal so long as they conform to the laws in the places where they were performed.

During the three decades when Gretna Green flourished, there were more than 7,000 marriages recorded there, nearly 800 of which were performed in 1855, the year before Scotland enacted a law which made a three weeks' residence a requisite to marriage. Marriage by declaration is still legal in Scotland.

BE THANKFUL YOU CAN SMELL

English Woman, Writer Went Through Life Keenly Regretting Her Lack of That Sense.

Did it ever occur to you to be grateful for the sense of smell? Probably not, and yet those who have been deprived of it have felt their loss keenly.

Harriet Martineau, the famous English writer, lacked the sense of smell and consequently the sense of taste, which depends on smell. Once and only once she tasted in all the intensity of flavor a slice of a leg of mutton. The sense came to her suddenly and she thought and hoped it had come to stay.

"I was going out to a great dinner that night," she said when telling of her one taste, "and I looked forward with great eagerness to the dainties that I knew would be set before me. How I should enjoy practicing my new-found sense of taste!"

But, alas, the sense of taste disappeared as suddenly as it had come, and never returned, and she went through life remembering that taste of roast mutton as one of her keenest joys.

Could See Resemblance.

In a downtown store the other day a woman stood near the cash desk very pardonably and proudly showing off a little baby girl, of whom the exhibitor quite obviously was an aunt. The child's effectiveness consisted mainly of its head-dress and a cluster of rich golden curls. An admiring group soon gathered around, while the woman pointed out the baby's finer points of beauty, concluding with the rather far-fetched statement that "Everybody says she looks just like me!" The woman, busy talking, did not notice that the child had become restive and was tugging with both hands at the ribbons which fastened the dainty cap on her head, and suddenly the knot was untied, and off came the cap. And off came the curls, too, which were fastened to the cap, leaving the baby as bald as the floorwalker who stood grinning nearby. There was a moment of charitable silence, and then someone in the crowd turned away with the remark: "Well, she does look a good deal like the old lady, at that."—Kansas City Star.

Canals.

A suggestion made by a Londoner that the bed of the Forth and Clyde canal should be converted into a high-way of traffic has not been received north of the Tweed with the indignation that might have been expected. The Glasgow Herald says the notion is not so extravagant as it might appear. The swift progress of motor transport threatens the railways, and it can scarcely fail to affect the position of the canals in industrial and commercial economy. The canal belongs to those leisurely periods of the world's history which saw Egypt and China at their apogee. It was, it is interesting to remember, in the fifteenth century, a time of development if ever there was, that canal engineering received its great impetus in the Western world owing to the discovery of the "lock" system. England applied the new idea with such thoroughness that her canal system became second, probably, only to that of Holland.

Accident Policy's Limit.

If a man die of blood poisoning as the result of giving himself a hypodermic injection, his family can collect nothing on his accident insurance policy. For the possession of a hypodermic needle is a violation of the New York public health law, Article 11A; therefore the man commits a crime and dies as the result. This was decided by the appellate division in a recent case.

Next Antarctic Expedition.

Great Britain's next expedition to the antarctic regions will endeavor to learn something additional about the habits and migrations of whales and to ascertain the mineral and other deposits of economic value.

The following letter has been sent to all Punched Alumni whose names are on the secretary's book. It is hoped that this further notice in the newspaper may reach others whose names were not on the mailing list.

This is not an appeal in behalf of a school or church drive, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. or K. of C. campaign, Liberty Bond, Thrift Stamp or Irish Bonds sales; it is not an announcement of the shortage of coal which compels us to inform you that we can send you only an eighth of a ton, nor a regretful statement that owing to the cost of labor, we must raise the already unstable price of all staple articles, etc., etc.

Having thus set your mind at rest, we wish to say that this is the letter which reaches you yearly, inviting you to the annual supper and reunion of the Punched Alumni Association, which will be held Tuesday evening, April 13th in Punched Hall. The Executive Committee began six weeks ago to plan for this event, notwithstanding the fact that at that time, every other person was down with the "flu", and there seemed to be imminent danger that, with the melting of the snow, Andover would turn into a little Venice, and Shawshen Village become a place of floods and freshets. In spite of these discouraging features, the committee worked out a very promising program, feeling sure that by this time, with the days of discomfort behind them, the alumni would be doubly interested in the approaching reunion.

The supper, which will be one of Mr. Rhodes' best efforts, will be served at 7:00 o'clock. This will be followed by short after-dinner speeches by prominent alumni. The business meeting will then be convened, so that everyone can assist in the momentous task of electing officers for the coming year, and immediately following, a short play will be presented by several Punched devotees of the Thespian art. Dancing will then be enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. Good music will be furnished, and there will be an opportunity for everyone to thoroughly enjoy himself.

The individual class secretaries are making earnest efforts to get out as many of their classmates as possible, as it has been planned to recognize at the banquet in some suitable manner the class having the largest percentage of its members present.

The annual membership fee of $1.00 is now due, and an extra assessment of $1.00 will be made to those who attend the banquet. Husbands and wives of members are eligible to membership as formerly. Any who are unable to be present at the banquet, but who wish to retain their membership in the Association can do so by payment of the membership fee only. Dues and assessments should be sent at once to Arthur H. Lewis, treasurer. It is imperative that all such dues be paid before April 8th, in order to ensure provision for all at the supper. Fill out the enclosed slip now and send with $2.00 to the treasurer.

We had a good time last year and will this year. Come and enjoy it. For the Committee.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, S. C.—It surely is one thing after another here now and the man who knows what might happen on the morrow is a mighty smart man at that. Days gone by gave vent to the predictions and they came true at a time when everyone knew that they would come true, but those days are over for ever. But there is a question as to the real worth for the people as to present methods and those practices in the days of long ago. As to the evils or the graces it is not to argue now, but you can dream and dream. So it is here there are many who would have the old days back again, but it is safe to say that there will be only dreams for some years to come. Col. Bryan has stirred up things in a merry mess democratically speaking and on the other side the Newberry case is a bad mess. That case better not be argued too strongly at this time for it promises to be a famous case and one that may react either way. No one questions the State of Michigan as to its being a Republican State now and at the election so recently passed. And when such a lot of mud is thrown by certain administration organs at men not Newberry by name, it speaks evil of the case from the beginning. Senator Watson is going to push the Senate inquiry into the election as fast as possible and a real hearing and inquiry will be the result. The Senate leaders on both sides are fully agreed upon a true investigation and that will result. The Senate is jealous of its membership and this case will be no exception, never mind what may be the result politically. But for some of the minority in the Congress to throw mud at men not concerned save as being Republicans, speaks very bad for the other side of the house just at this time. The case adds another day in court when this city will be busy for months to come, conventions or no conventions.

The treaty of peace and its ally—the league of nations—are now resting quietly at the White House and already it is being forgotten. That is what they tell you when asked about it here at the Capitol—“Forget it” and let it rest. That is all the answer you can get out of a member of either Senate or House for that matter. Now that the treaty is out of the Senate, other things can come into being that are of the greatest importance to the country just at this time. The attention of the country is of course attracted by the actions of the “red,” the “bolshyeviki” and all such tribes. Just at this time Germany is in terror from all sorts of peoples who are the first of the Russian type now running affairs in that late country. No question before the people of the United States is as important as that bearing upon good government and its people. Parlor bolsheviks have been allowed too much liberty here and it is only too true that many men in authority under our government have allowed these people to use that liberty for license. The nation is now paying for it only too well. A while ago there was apparent real action and it looked as if the country would be rid of the “reds” and all their tribes. But the “ark” made but one trip and then, well, that is the question. But there were no end of doings before the “ark” sailed and it is that matter that will be the next sensational step in the inquiry line.

The Senate will shortly order an investigation by the Committee on Immigration covering the administration and enforcement of the immigration law and the administration of the alien immigration station at Ellis Island, New York Harbor, under Frederic C. Howe, formerly in charge of that station. The inquiry will also allow for an inquiry as to the attitude and policy of the Department of Labor with respect to the provisions of the immigration law which authorizes the deportation of aliens unlawfully within the United States. The Senate inquiry calls for action. It is a fact that Senator King of the State of Utah is ready to back up that a very large number of aliens have been allowed to remain in the country because of the indifference of the Department of Labor with regard to the issuance of an execution of warrants for the deportation of the aliens. That is a hard charge to make against a great department of the Government but it is so frequently heard here that it has almost become a joke and would be but a laughing matter but for the real seriousness of the situation. The Department of Justice has issued over 6000 warrants and 3300 of them have been executed, but that is about all in the premises. To find out just what is the matter and why these aliens are allowed to remain here is a mystery. Some one is responsible and who and why such conditions are allowed to exist is what the Senate proposes to find out. It will be the real star inquiry of the session for it will bring out, it is said, many men and women who are filled with the idea of a strange sort of freedom. The former Ellis Island manager is well known here and has many friends in official life here. Some members of the Congress are anxious to get him on the stand somewhere and some time and then there surely will be something doing. It is not proposed to make martyrs out of any one, but it is hoped for and desired that facts shall support the reasons for the delay in throwing out of the country undesirable citizens. The pre-war days of so much anxiety and dangers and damage are all too soon forgotten. The inquiry of the immigration muss will develop many things once it is under way. Just when it will open is as yet uncertain.

Congressman Peter Tague of Boston says that there are too many officers in the navy yards. In other words the Boston representative would have naval officers go to sea. This idea is no doubt a popular one and the people at home will wonder why such a question should have been raised anyway. A great cry has gone up of late that there are not men for the ships; but Mr. Tague has found out where the officers are. He says the navy yards are full of officers, so to speak. “I think the Navy makes a great mistake,” says Mr. Tague, “by keeping the number of officers they do in the navy yards of the country. I have noticed in the navy yards in my district and other navy yards that I have visited that there are a great many officers in the engineering corps and in the construction corps that could be better occupied if they were outside and doing work aboard ships.” And this is in a time of shortage of officers. Such officers, says Mr. Tague, do not help the work in the navy yards. Many times these officers “have been more of a nuisance than help to the workmen who are at work in the yards from day to day. “Go to any navy yard of the country,” says Mr. Tague, “and ask the mechanics employed there and they will tell you that their work is interfered with a great part of the time by some of these officers, who should be doing other work, such as training young men for the service that is so much needed aboard ship. The work at the navy yard could be better done, and is being better done, where they have civilians in charge, rather than where they have officers in charge.” Mr. Tague’s idea is not a popular one with many of his colleagues and of course the officers and their friends are not pleased with the Boston representative’s remarks about sea duty. But what Mr. Tague has said is no doubt one of the growing effects that some naval administration will and must correct. Spurs upon army men who never rode a horse (and some may have seen only pictures of horses) and land officers of the navy are two matters that are always causing trouble in this town. Mr. Tague speaks right out and the country laughs with him at the great amount of “sea work” the officers are doing. The navy is the great defense of the country and it is strong with the people, but the people like to see the officers as well as the men play fair. Mr. Tague says something is the matter when highly skilled mechanics are being interfered with by young naval officers who have had no practical experience and just out of school. Such is the case right now in many of the navy yards of the country. The Boston representative may be a bit old-fashioned, being from Boston, but there are many who will agree with him that during a shortage of officers in the navy, officers should be taken from land duty and sent to sea. It’s high time that some one was so directing affairs. Gee, but it is one thing after another here in Washington these days.

Spring is on time.
And everyone is for it; the White House going strong.

Painless Dentistry

“An American at home, with or without toothache, is not much affected by the sign, ‘Painless Dentistry,’ but at sight of it in a foreign land he thrills pleasantly,” a traveler said. “Its lure is not professional. Every tooth in his head may be perfectly sound, yet if stranded and homesick he welcomes that sign because all over Europe it is a sure indication that somewhere in the neighborhood lives a citizen of the United States. From the northernmost town of Norway and Sweden to the boundaries of Sahara the words ‘painless dentistry’ are likely to hit you in the eye at the most unexpected turning. Usually they are followed or preceded by ‘American,’ but that qualifying term is entirely unnecessary. Dentists of other countries make no pretense of performing painless dentistry, or if they do they do not advertise their skill. They leave that for their American rivals.”

Miss Mabel Carter, the secretary, has reported over seventy applications for enrollment since its commencement. And in spite of the unfavorable weather conditions the attendance has been very satisfactory.

Andover has reason to be proud of her fine institutions of learning but she should also be proud of her progressive women, who, with all their other activities, have found time to brush up their French in this manner. The class has been a distinct success from the beginning, due to their interest and enthusiasm in the work. And it is certain that any new classes organized in Andover next year will have difficulty in attaining greater result.

Rapid strides have been made in education in Massachusetts. During the past year over 17,000 students, the majority employed in earning a living, therefore unable to attend an institution with regular hours for study, availed themselves of the opportunities offered by the division of university extension of the Massachusetts department of education. These people enrolled in courses given either in class or by correspondence to improve themselves for practical and cultural purposes. The earnestness and sincerity on the part of these people is made evident by the fact that most of them are completing their prescribed work and will receive certificates from the state.

Taunton is a good example of a city where the residents are making the most of their opportunities. Their courses, largely attended, range from cultural subjects such as conversational Spanish, conversational French, and appreciation of English literature, to the practical one of office organization and management, elementary accounting, which, by the way, are seized upon by ambitious bookkeepers and stenographers as a means to advancement in the business world; practical applied mathematics and advanced shop arithmetic. These last two courses are especially popular because of the manufacturing activities in Taunton.

The occasional difficulty of learning without the physical presence of an instructor has been eliminated by groups of people studying together. For example, a number of employees in a Boston office of one of the largest automobile companies in the country recently enrolled in a correspondence course, “advertising.” They appoint certain nights during the week when they get together and discuss questions on the lessons, thereby gaining advantages from oral expression of ideas and of personal experiences. An interesting part of this incident is the fact that the group consists of men ranging from the office boy to the manager, all heading toward the same goal, advancement. Over one hundred and thirty courses are offered in class and by correspondence by the division; the privilege of taking any of this work is extended to all residents of this state with no expense beyond the cost of material used. Massachusetts is making every effort to bring opportunities for personal improvement to the “doors of the people.” To develop the individual is to develop the nation. Let every citizen realize this fact and take advantage of it by enrolling in one of the state university courses.

The following correspondence students of Andover have recently received certificates upon successfully completing the course in which they enrolled: Nellie B. Bliss, 25 Central street, Household Management; George Robert Grover, 354 North Main street, Practical Applied Mathematics; Ernestine Soehrens, 44 Whittier street, Commercial Spanish.

The Lawrence Mayor

We are inclined to think that Lawrence has reason to be considerably disturbed over the attitude of its present Mayor, provided he succeeds in doing one-half of the things he publicly talks about. Among the more recent proclamations issued by that gentleman is a proposition to take over the street cars and run them by the city, or in turn, if the street cars fail to give the service that pleases that august gentleman, to establish a line of jitneys, whether they are to be run by the city or not, not being definitely determined. Another proclamation announces to the landlords that if the amount of rent they charge seems to the Mayor of the city to be exorbitant, he, the Mayor, will see that they are assessed accordingly.

Other proclamations have spent all the way from a million to a billion, for all kinds and sorts of improvement at the public expense, with the result that if somebody doesn't put a brake upon the distinguished gentleman pretty soon, they will be obliged to change the name of Lawrence to Utopia, for when the money is all spent the city could not possibly fall short of the condition that that name suggests. Of course the little factor of who would pay the bills for all the improvements, or the little factor of assessments being governed by a pretty well established law, will not be allowed by the Mayor to at all interfere with his program; but looking on from the outside, one cannot help suggesting that Mayor White has reason to fear fairly closely to the line of sensible and sane business methods if he is to at all justify the renewed confidence of the Lawrence people expressed at the recent election.

These are not the times for quite as much demagogism as he is displaying, and we are inclined to believe that even the street-corner crowd is feeling somewhat this way. May we respectfully suggest to His Honor, even though our interest is somewhat indirect, that his friends in Lawrence and outside would welcome a little more accomplishment and a little less talk in carrying the city in the trying times that every government faces at the present time, and that such cities as Lawrence must face, with increasing force, in the immediate future.

Andover and a President

Seldom has the political situation preliminary to a presidential election been as little complicated as it is at the present time here in Massachusetts. There is almost no interest, and what interest there is seems to be perfectly satisfied with a procedure that provides for the election of delegates favorable to

Andover Girl to Marry Boston Man

The engagement of Miss Nora M. Hodnett of 81 North Main street, and Daniel M. Donovan of Boston, was announced at a luncheon given by Miss Pearl Halloran at her home in Concord, N. H., Monday.

Miss Hodnett is private secretary to Attorney General Young at the State House, Concord, N. H. Mr. Donovan is connected with a Boston banking house. The wedding will take place in June.

To Entertain State Federation

The regular meeting of the Tuesday Club was held this week at the home of Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn on Locke street. A paper on "The Literature of South America" was read by Mrs. Frank H. Hardy and the topic "Current Events" was in charge of Miss Alice S. Gaults. Singing by a trio completed the afternoon's program.

On April 11th the Tuesday Club will entertain the Fifth District of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at an all-day meeting to be held at the South Church. Several excellent speakers have been secured and the program promises to be one of great interest not only for club members but also for the general public. The central topic for the day is "Community Service."

The Tuesday Club is the only organization in town affiliated with the Federation of Women's Clubs and this is the first time that a meeting of the Federation has been planned in Andover.

Presented With Purse

Friday night at the meeting of Clan Johnston, 185, O. S. C., Thomas Low, senior henchman, was presented with a purse of money by Chief John McGrath, in behalf of the clansmen. Mr. Low, who has been an active worker in the clan, leaves next Saturday for Ohio, where he will make his home. He has been prominently identified with soccer and was a member of Co. H, 16th M. S. G., until its disbanding.

At the business session, David Forbes was elected to fill the vacancy. One candidate was accepted as a member. The anniversary of the clan will be celebrated Friday night, April 2nd, in Garfield Hall. The regular meeting will be held at 7:00 o'clock followed by an entertainment and dance. Refreshments will be served.

General Wood if the Wood advisers so desire it, but strictly unpledged as the public understands it. The result of this would seem to be the election of an unpledged delegation of men thoroughly reliable, to be safely trusted with action at the convention as the convention may develop. The great mass of people in Massachusetts hope, and many of them believe that the situation will develop so that Governor Coolidge may be the final candidate of the Republican party. There are not lacking many evidences of a situation in the convention that will make him the logical choice when the issue becomes sufficiently involved among those who are leading among the unpledged delegates.

The Andover district will be without a contest at all because of the fact that only two candidates, General Gardner W. Pearson and Frank E. Dunbar of Lowell, are listed, are generally understood to be unpledged, both known to be favorable to Governor Coolidge, but one with leanings toward General Wood. Mr. Dunbar went to the convention four years ago as an alternate and General Pearson appears in national politics for the first time as a Republican. He has, however, most abundantly qualified for honors at the hands of the voters, by long service as Adjutant General of the Commonwealth and through his more recent election as a senator from the Lowell, Hading, Saugus, Lynn district. This Congressional district is to be well represented in these two men.

Editorial Cinders

The list of Hoover sponsors as the booming force in Massachusetts reads like a list of those dollar-a-year fellows who co-operated with that gentleman in his war work at Washington. This is nothing against either the gentlemen or Mr. Hoover, but one cannot help hoping that their attitude toward the presidency may at least not be less patriotic than was the attitude that some gentlemen exhibited in their service at Washington during the war.

"Andover welcomes the new minister at Free Church, and the entire town extends the right hand of fellowship to him. He has his problems and his opportunities. Both will be solved not only by his parishioners but by the town at large. A long line of splendid men has preceded Mr. Wheelock in the Free Church, and he comes into a place full of fine tradition and rich in promise. Good things are heard of him, and equally good things are said about him based upon the acquaintances already made. May the church and pastor go on, still adding to the good work making up its past record.

An Annual Service

In 1919, the president emeritus of Dartmouth College wrote in his book, "My Generation", concerning the interpretation of the Bible and Protestantism in the present day, these interesting words: "A further gain is beginning to be felt, even more clearly than it can be seen, in the growing sense of the unity of the church. The new conception of the Bible has already given a new conception of Christianity, larger, simpler and more unifying."

It is this larger conception of Christianity which we try to illustrate as each Good Friday comes in the succeeding church years. The people from all the parishes in Andover will be welcome at the Good Friday service this year at 8:00 o'clock in Christ church, and in these unsettled times are cordially invited to worship together, remembering the inclusive teaching of the message of Christ on the Cross.

Society Transfers Property

Last evening a meeting of the Free church society was held in the Parish house, Charles W. Clark, moderator, presiding. Since the incorporation of the church, efforts have been made to transfer the property of the society to the newly incorporated body. This was successfully accomplished last night and all property is now held by the Free Christian church, incorporated.

The society will not be dissolved at present because there may still come to the incorporated body, gifts willed to the society and these can be transferred from the society to the church more easily than if the society were now dissolved.

Lecture on Political Parties

The Civics Class will meet at the November Clubhouse on Friday afternoon, April 2nd, at half-past three. The subject of the lecture will be "Political Parties." Mrs. Claude U. Gibson, who has proved such an interesting and inspiring speaker, will probably give the lecture. If she is unable to come, Mrs. Trueworthy White, chairman of arrangements for citizenship classes in Boston, will take her place.

The public is invited. All members of the November Club who are interested to continue the Civics Department another season are urged to be present.

November Club Piano Recital

The public meeting of the music department of the November Club has long been a festive occasion, associated with the first spring hats, and an air of enjoyment; and this year was no exception, though the custom of the club members in giving their own work was departed from, and Mrs. Ethel Tozier-Hardy of Orange, New Jersey, was the pianist of the day. Her agreeable program, and her good playing gave general pleasure, and one heard many expressions of delight at each and all of her numbers. Her crisp, clear playing of the Scarlatti Capriccio and the dreamy songfulness of the Chopin Nocturne were especially liked. The ensemble number, for two pianos, the Mozart-Grieg sonata, admirably played by Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Angus, gave fresh and delightful variety to the program. The numbers by Brahms and Grieg were of special interest to the department, whose year's study has been devoted to these two composers.

It is a pleasure to welcome Mrs. Hardy here, not only musically but personally. She has many friends in town, whose number will be increased by her concert of Monday.

The program follows:

Essays Which Won Medals

The two best essays on "Patriotism Through Service", written in competition for the medals offered by the Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, are printed below.

At the exercises held last Friday afternoon at the Stowe School, Olive Mitchell, holder of one of the medals during the past year presented, it to Margaret Manning with the following words:

"It is very easy to be patriotic when flags are flying, drums are beating and soldiers are marching to war, but we often forget that our country needs our help in peace, also."

"Patriotism does not necessarily mean knitting and sewing for the Red Cross. If we are good and loyal citizens, and do our tasks as well as we can, we are being patriotic through service."

"Margaret Manning, I take great pleasure in presenting to you, as the successful competitor from Stowe School, this medal, awarded by the Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution."

"A strong love of country" is one of the many meanings of the word "patriotism." To show patriotism we must first establish self control. If we have self-control, we will not do the things which we otherwise would do, such as throwing gum and candy papers in the streets, walking on private property and doing things which we know, or should know, are wrong.

Good citizenship is a result of patriotism. If we are patriotic and do our duty in times of peace as well as in times of war, we shall earn the honor title of a "good citizen."

If good communities soon make strong states and they soon make a powerful nation, it is the patriotic duty of every one of us to help make our community the best, which can be done by being thrifty, by helping others who cannot do as well as we can, and making ourselves the best citizens possible.

A community will grow if it is made up of good, wholesome, healthy people. Therefore, our duty is to make ours just such a one.

MARGARET MANNING,
Stowe School

Patriotism means love to your country. As we read in our books we see that our forefathers have given their lives to preserve this country. Now the only thing that is left for us to do is to guard the country. To guard the country is to buy thrift stamps, liberty bonds, and in this way we can help our country.

We all must be ready for the future time and try to make our nation the leading nation in the world. Even a child should have within him the love of his country. God has granted us liberty and we must hold liberty forever.

In the late war we lost a great number of soldiers. And what was the reason? We fought for liberty and justice. And now our nation needs money to give to its soldiers. We must do our best to preserve our nation. Doing all this means a service for our country.

Presented with Loving Cup

Thirty years' service among the Christian Endeavorers of the Free Christian church was pleasantly recognized by the Christian Endeavor society at a social gathering Monday night in the Parish house when Rev. Frederick A. Wilson was presented with a beautiful loving cup.

The presentation was made by Thomas Dea in behalf of the society and in making the gift he said it expressed in a humble way the deep gratitude which the Christian Endeavorers felt for Mr. Wilson. Sunday after Sunday, he said, Mr. Wilson had given of his best to make them better Christians and everyone in the society admired his wholeheartedness and the interest which he had shown in the success of Christian Endeavor.

Mr. Wilson was visibly touched and completely surprised, but expressed his heartfelt thanks not only for the beautiful cup but for the spirit which prompted it.

The cup is a beautiful specimen of the silversmith's art and is inscribed, "To Our Beloved Pastor from His Christian Endeavorers 1920."

The entertainment consisted of a piano solo by Miss Minerva Ramsdell, piano duets by Misses Helen Otis and Olive J. Mitchell, a vocal solo by Miss Bessie Coultts and a very enjoyable reading by Miss Mabel Marshall.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and cookies were served afterwards, and games played in the dining room in charge of Rev. A. S. Whelock, pastor-elect. The committee which carried out the arrangements was Robert V. Deymond, chairman; Misses Gladys Napier, Alexina Harris, Eva Mehlman, Ruth Saunders and John Caldwell and Alfred Harris.

Obituary

DAVID YOUNG COMSTOCK

The news has been received of the sudden death from pneumonia of Professor David Young Comstock at Arlington, Mass., when he has recently made his home. Prof. Comstock was the head of the Latin Department in Phillips Academy for eighteen years, 1874-1892. After leaving the Academy he was for two years associate principal of the Hotchkiss School at Lakeville, Conn., where with Principal E. Y. Coy, well known in Andover, he helped to organize the new school. Then he became principal of St. Johnsbury Academy at St. Johnsbury, Vt., for ten years. Later he was for a time in the employ of the publishing house of D. C. Heath and Company, Boston, in a literary capacity; and finally for some years had charge of the Latin department of the Fall River High School. Prof. Comstock had been in delicate health for several years, mainly the result of the frightful injuries he received at the time of the earthquake in Jamaica where he was staying for rest and recreation. His time of service in the Academy was during that interesting and remarkable period when the number of students was more than doubled and the influence of the Academy became really world wide. His abilities as a teacher were extraordinary; his devotion to his work unflagging, and his moral influence upon his pupils of a very high order. As a genial and jovial companion he was unsurpassed. No company could be dull with him in it. As a neighbor and friend he was sympathetic, generous and helpful. Some of his pupils thought him severe and sarcastic at times, but all agreed that he was a superb instructor and that most of his shafts were directed against the idle or indifferent, and that he had almost unlimited patience with anybody who would make an honest effort to do well. Many a former student is now glad to testify to the great debt he owes to Prof. Comstock. The world has surely lost a man of great influence where he was known. His daughter, Ethel, Mrs. Bridgman, is now the only living member of the family.

Your Watch a Real Power Plant

Noticing your article in the March 19th issue of the Andover Townsman in regard to the concentrated energy stored in a radium dial, I wish to state that it is a scientific reality that in each accurately adjusted watch there is incorporated a wonderful amount of energy.

Your watch beats 18,000 times per hour, 432,000 times in a day, 1,576,800, 000 times in a year; the balance wheel alone would travel from Boston to San Francisco in one year.

The energy is supplied by a steel spring, fifteen to twenty inches in length, coiled and wound into a steel shell, which during its unwinding runs a series of four wheels whose purpose is to transmit this energy to the "escapement" or heart of the watch.

Practically and theoretically speaking, a watch is a wonderful mechanism in which man has striven to incorporate the accuracy of the stars. Years of scientific research have been conducted, and the man who today possesses an accurate, high grade watch should cherish that accuracy and make it his standard of life and conduct.

Respectfully submitted by

In Memory of Miss Helen Battles

A beautiful memorial consisting of a folder handsomely printed and illuminated and signed by all the scholars now attending the Richardson School has recently been presented to the family of Miss Helen W. Battles who for more than thirty years was a beloved teacher in that school.

The sonnet by Cornelius A. Wood and the names of the children are reproduced below:

Not one of those loud-mouthed and buxom dames
That would the whole town rule with heavy hand;
Not one of those vain damozels, whose poor claims
Are based upon their person or their land;
But, like her home of old New England time,
She is the heart of all that simple taste,
Reincarnation of Colonial prime:
In duty steadfast, in her manners chaste,
The little, old, red schoolhouse near her door,
Where happy children learned their loyalty,
Buried her heart-throbs, took her best labor,
Though wages mean, and she all frailty;
Having no children of her own to cheer,
Working she died for those she held most dear.

CORNELIUS A. WOOD

We, the children of Miss Battles' School, miss Miss Battles, and cherish her memory. She wanted us to become good citizens, and we trust that we shall not disappoint her.

We hope, further, that the Commonwealth and Community will recognize more fully the great service rendered by public school teachers, and will take effective steps to reimburse them more nearly in accordance with this service.

Minstrels by Basketball Team

Tickets are now on sale for the Minstrel Show and dance to be given by the Pynchard High boys' basketball team in the school hall on Saturday evening, April 10th. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for the benefit of the Athletic Association. In the last few seasons the school has turned out good teams which are a credit to Pynchard, but they cannot carry out their schedules without adequate financial support. It is the purpose of this entertainment to help provide these much needed funds as well as to furnish an evening's entertainment for friends of the school.

The minstrel troupe is rehearsing regularly twice a week with Director Hyley. There is to be a chorus of thirty voices as well as solos by Ethel Cole and Edna Lawrence. The men chosen for premier ends are Joseph Clinton and Robert Partridge, assisted by Harry Payne, William Dalton, Charles Dalton and Darwin Stark.

LEONARD WOOD
WESTERN CAREER

Won Congressional Medal of Honor in Apache Campaign. Sent to Washington.

By JOHN G. HOLME.

The sea was Leonard Wood's first ambition. He wanted to enter the navy, but chances for advancement in the service were meager, and adventure beckoned in the form of an arctic expedition. He had decided to become an explorer when his father, Dr. Wood, took his son into his study one day and advised him to follow his own profession, that of medicine. The result was that Leonard Wood entered the Harvard Medical School in 1880, graduating four years later. With the aid of a hard-earned scholarship, he worked his own way through college. He tutored students and picked up other odd jobs to pay expenses.

The struggle to get a start was bitter. After serving as an interne in one of the Boston hospitals and practicing for several months in one of the poorer sections of Boston, where the people were too poor to pay much, if anything, for medical attendance, young Dr. Wood, with fifty-nine other physicians, took an examination for army surgeons, passing second in the class. He was asked if he would accept a position as contract surgeon at $100 per month.

"Yes, if I can go West and see active service," answered Wood.

The examining officer smiled and assured Wood that he would see plenty of active service. This proved to be no idle talk.

The summons came in June, 1885. Dr. Wood was ordered to report for duty to General Crook at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., in command of operations against the Apache Indians under Geronimo. Wood arrived at Fort Huachuca on the Fourth of July. Soldiers, cowboys, Indians and frontiersmen were celebrating the day with gunpowder and red liquor. The "tenderfoot" was assigned to the Fourth Cavalry, commanded by Captain Henry W. Lawton, who became famous in the Spanish-American War as a Major-General. The latter looked at his visitor and said:

"What the hell are you doing out here?"

"I want to get into the line as soon as possible,"

Lawton chuckled and slapped Wood on the back and said:

"I'll see that you'll get into the line."

Rode an "outlaw."

There was a column of Indian fighters starting off the following morning, and Wood was ordered to go along. An old sergeant brought him a mount. "A very special horse, sir," he remarked as he handed Wood the reins. The latter mounted and rode off. He soon found out that his "special horse" was in reality an "outlaw," half-broke and mean-tempered. Its gait was so vicious that even the veteran troopers shunned it. Wood rode the animal thirty-five miles that day and was not thrown. He was blistered, for the sun was hot and the "outlaw" was rough, but Wood stayed with the troopers, and, in the language of the army, he "healed in the saddle." The campaign lasted for fourteen months, leading over thousands of miles of wilderness in New Mexico and Arizona. Wood was one of the few men that went through the whole campaign. Early in the pursuit, after a twenty-five mile march, he rode seventy-four miles by night, carrying dispatches through the Indian lines, and on the following day he rode thirty miles with his troops.

When Geronimo sent word to the Americans that he was ready to surrender, Wood was one of the four officers who went into the Apache camp to negotiate. This was in old Mexico. The American officers accompanied the Indians for two weeks as they marched in a parallel column with the American troops into United States territory for formal capitulation. At one time during the march the two columns lost contact, and Wood, with his brother officers, was left at the mercy of the Reds.

Geronimo, observing Wood's new Hotchkiss rifle, asked to examine it. "I must confess I felt a little nervous," General Wood said in telling the story, "but I made no objections, and let him have the rifle and showed him how to use it." Geronimo fired at a mark and just missed one of his men. This he regarded as a huge joke, and saying: "Good gun. Good gun." The Indians tried no treachery and surrendered as they had promised to do.

Twelve years later Wood was given the Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military reward, "for distinguished service in the campaign against the Apache Indians in 1886 while serving as medical and line officer in Captain Lawton's expedition."

Wood spent several years in the Southwest. He was General Miles' chief assistant in surveying Arizona. He studied military science and field maneuvers with such devotion that he was soon acknowledged to be a thoroughly competent line officer. Nor did he neglect his surgical profession. General Wood is not a vain man, but he shows a good deal of pride today when he recalls that he succeeded in saving General Miles from having his leg amputated after his horse had fallen with him, crushing the limb.

Mothers' Club Outing

In spite of the blustering snow storm of last Saturday, ten courageous "mothers" and three equally brave "fathers" boarded the 11.15 train for Boston and enjoyed an outing in the capital.

The party first witnessed the performance of the "Outrageous Mrs. Palmer" at the Arlington Theatre, after which followed dinner at Marston's. In the evening another recruit was drafted for the party and all enjoyed the picture, "Male and Female" at the Scollay Square play house, where they had the added pleasure of hearing the music of the wonderful organ which is installed there.

KNOWING THRIFT IS POWER, YOUNG AMERICA URGES ALL TO PROTECT THEIR FUTURE BY REGULAR, SYSTEMATIC SAVING INVEST YOUR SAVINGS IN WAR SAVINGS STAMPS.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

Are you saving money? You should be. No matter what your present weekly income is, you should be placing a part of it aside for the proverbial "rainy day." There are many reasons why one should make every effort to save some of their money at the present time.

Financial experts have figured that the present value of the American dollar as compared to its value in 1910 is less than one half of its original purchasing power. Therefore, after the period of reconstruction we are now passing through is over, dollars which are only worth approximately 50 cents will return to their par value in purchasing power of $1.00. When one stops to think of this fact it becomes most evident that saving today pays a pretty high rate of interest to the man who can lay a few dollars aside.

Thousands of N. E. Children Know That Thrift is Power

An intensive thrift campaign is now being carried on in the schools of New England with the hope that such effort will make it possible for the generation to come to redeem the present unpopular belief of the European countries that America is the spendthrift nation of the world.

Talks on thrift, pantomimes, plays and books aimed to teach the children the benefits derived from thrift living are being used in the schools of New England today to teach the children thrift. In many of these schools the teachers devote a period each week to discussions on Thrift subjects such as "How to Save Money."

Even today as the result of the National Thrift Campaign children in the schools of the country know that Thrift is power and that to save is to succeed.

Handling the Household Income

BY AN EXPERT

TEACHING THE CHILDREN THRIFT

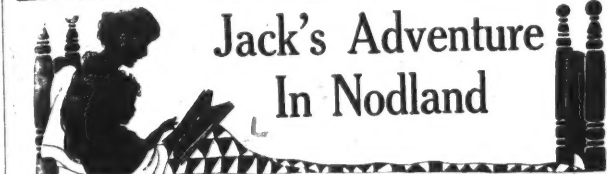

The place to teach your children Thrift is in the home. You should not leave this job to the school teacher. Talk over the family budget with the older children. Let them see what is each one's fair share of the income. Decide together how much shall be saved and how it can be saved. This will enlist the children's help.

Teach the children to spend their own money wisely. Show your boy or girl the benefits they derive from investing their savings in safe securities such as Thrift Stamps, War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates.

Show them how pennies grow. This is the "Way Pennies Grow" saved 4 per cent per annum each compounded semiannually.

Children should be shown how

Thrift is not a hardship. It is a habit. Get the habit by buying Thrift and War Savings Stamps every day.

Little Jack was crying. Mother had just put him to bed early. He'd been a bad boy. That afternoon when his father had given him a bright fifty cent piece to purchase bread at the grocer's, little Jack had returned without the bread and told his father that he lost the money.

Now Jack had lost the money. Instead he had kept it himself and later during a friendly tussle with Jip, the Irish terrier, the bright fifty cent piece had dropped from Jack's pocket and rolled noisily in front of his father. Questions followed and Jack confessed he had kept the money.

Jack Vists Thriftland.

The rays of the evening star shining through the trees started him back on Jack. It was very bright and reminded Jack of the stolen half dollar. Suddenly in the zero of the date figures he saw an oval door bound with silver hinges. It flew open.

The little dream-pony, Fleetfoot, beckoned for Jack to come. Before he realized it he was on Fleetfoot's back. The fleet pony sped far away through the star-lit night, far away from the lonely room with the black shadows.

Fleetfoot reached the foot of a steep hill.

"We stop here," said the pony. "Little boys who take money that doesn't belong to them, come here."

Fleetfoot told him. Here they stay until they learn they can never make money by stealing it.

Before Jack could question Fleetfoot he was thrown off the pony's back. He landed on the hillside with the rest of the boys. He started to run. He bumped into the Queen of Thriftland.

Jack Learns a Lesson.

"Jack," she said, and her voice sounded all the world like his mother's that he wanted to hug her. "Jack, none of these things here are given away for money. It is saving and planning and foresight that will make these things come to you. Thriftland gives nothing to those who do not save their pennies and spend them only in Thrift fashion."

"You're right," he sobbed. "You're right. If you will only show me how to begin, I'll promise you I'll start saving immediately." The Queen smiled and everything grew bright.

Jack rubbed his eyes in astonishment. He was back in his own little room. His father was bending over him.

"I didn't realize," his father said, "that you were getting to the point where you need money. Hereafter every week I'm going to pay you an allowance of so much money. And what is the first thing you are going to do?"

"I'll buy Thrift Stamps," Jack answered.

LAWRENCE

Saturday, Mar. 20—Actually there is at the present time flowing over the dam about 200,000 gallons of water every second. This is about one-fourth of the amount that came over every second during the freshet of 1896. High water in the Spicket river today caused Rutter's Model laundry and Mulvey's steam laundry, both in the rear of 45 Brook street, to suspend temporarily. There is about a foot of water in the basement of the boiler room which furnishes power to each laundry, and this prevents getting up steam because of the inability to get any draft. Wilbert J. Smith, proprietor of the Smith Motor Car Company, has purchased the Henry J. Koellen property on the southeast corner of Jackson and Essex streets. The property has a frontage of 27-1/2 feet on Essex street and is 80 feet deep. The assessed value is $33,000. Trolley car service to Salem via Wilson's corner in North Andover was resumed at 6.45 o'clock last night for the first time in more than a month. The first blizzard of the season closed the line. Workmen of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway cleared the snow and ice from the rails as far as "the Ledge" in Middleton where workers from the Salem end of the line met. Haverhill via North Andover and Ward Hill is still closed to traffic. Haverhill crews started yesterday to clear the rails on the Haverhill end and will work to Sutton's corner in North Andover. Twelve candidates to be delegates to the national conventions had filed their papers at the city hall yesterday afternoon at 5.00 o'clock, and in addition there were eight alternates. The only Lawrence men were Archie N. Frost, Republican delegate, and Fabrizio Pittocelli, Republican alternate, and James A. Donovan, Democratic delegates, all in the seventh district. All are unpledged.

Monday, Mar. 22—Plans are being prepared for a modern theater with a seating capacity of 2400 to be built by the Toomey & Demara Amusement Company on Broadway, adjoining the Broadway theater. Thomas F. Toomey stated this morning that the house will cost in the vicinity of $300,000 and although its policy will be pictures it will be so constructed as to stage any form of entertainment, thus allowing for a possible change in policy later. The Lawrence Division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company failed to meet its expenses during the month of January, according to an income statement made public today. A net income of $16,050 was needed to earn the cost of service. This was not only not met, but there was a deficit of $1,088.54. The first move to have jitney service resumed in any form was made by the City Council when it was voted Monday to notify the public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company that public necessity requires motor transportation service to and from Victory Park. Alderman Flanagan voted "no" on the passage of the order, which was introduced by Alderman Carr. More than $1170 was raised Saturday by about eighty boys from the Y. M. C. A. on the eighth Annual State Boys' Day conducted by the local "Y". The city was canvassed by the youngsters, who had been given letters to distribute during the week to the houses where they collected, telling what the money was needed for.

Tuesday, Mar. 23—There will be a sweeping increase in real estate valuations this year, but Mayor White announced Tuesday that they will be based mainly upon the earning power of the property. He will announce the list of assistant assessors before the end of the week. Taxpayers will be given the right to appeal before the books are entirely made up if they think that their valuations are unreasonable. A large sheet of ice, which had been hugging the south shore of the Merrimack river, suddenly gave way early yesterday afternoon and crossing the stream, tore away part of the wharf at the Merrimack Boat and Canoe club-house and a small section of the ice hoist at the plant of the Jersey Ice Cream company. The Dartmouth Dramatic Association will visit Lawrence Wednesday evening with a three-act undergraduate musical comedy, "Oh, Doctor" which they will play at the Rialto theater.

NORTH ANDOVER

Monday, Mar. 22—The members of the Women's Alliance of the North Parish church are to hold an all-day sewing meeting with Mrs. E. J. Prescott, Chestnut street, in the Centre, next Thursday beginning at 10.00 o'clock. Mrs. Prescott, Mrs. Isaac Osgood and Miss Mabel Hannaford are to serve tea. Rev. H. Usher Munro of North Scituate, rector emeritus of St. Paul's church, preached at both morning and evening services Sunday.

Tuesday, Mar. 23—At a meeting of the selectmen which took place Monday evening, the following police were appointed: George Clary, Sutton street; Marcus L. Carey, Greene street; James M. Craig, Davis street; Alvin B. Kane, Gray street; Joseph Bumyea, Second street. George Matthews was appointed a public weigher. James R. Welch of 300 Andover street and Benjamin P. Poor of 341 Sutton street were drawn as jurors for the Superior Court session at Salem on Monday, April 5th. The board will hold hearings next Monday evening, beginning at 8.00 o'clock, on petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company for locations of poles and attaching wires. Chairman Peter Holt presided over the meeting. Capt. Henry R. Smith, agent of the board of health, has been re-appointed to that position. The assessors organized Monday evening with the choice of Peter Holt as chairman and Edward E. Curley, clerk. The other member is Patrick P. Daw. The salary for 1920 is $500 each, on account of the ten year valuation. The members of the board enter upon their duties April 1st.

Wednesday, Mar. 24—All of the representatives from Lawrence, Methuen, Andover and North Andover went on record yesterday afternoon in favor of the bill providing for daylight saving in this state, beginning next Sunday. Those voting for the measure were Messrs. Jordan, Bradbury and Donnelly of Lawrence, Robertson of North Andover and Dow and Stedman of Methuen. The bill passed the House by the overwhelming vote of 181 to 38, and was then sent to the Senate. It is considered certain to pass the Senate, but by a comparative narrow margin. The condition of William F. Hodgett who has been ill for a number of weeks at his home, the Prospect house in the Centre, remains practically unchanged. The Johnson High School basketball team will play Lawrence High in that city, April 21st. Rev. John L. Keedy and Miss Katherine S. Clement are representing the Trinitarian Congregational church at the installing council at the Free Christian church, Andover, this afternoon and evening, when Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock was installed as pastor. Moses T. Stevens left today for a trip to the Pacific coast, to visit his sister, Mrs. Arthur Lovekin, at Riverside, California. At a meeting of the school committee Tuesday afternoon Chairman Charles A. Appleton presiding, it was voted to increase the maximum of the school teachers' salaries $400, dating from January 1, 1920.

METHUEN

Monday, Mar. 22—The call to vespers sounded from the tower of the First church on Sunday afternoon by a trumpeter, was responded to by a large audience, who gathered to hear Miss Ethel Hinton pay her tribute to the chivalry of the American soldiers in camp overseas where she came in daily contact with them in her service as an entertainer. She paid a glowing tribute to the work of the American soldier and had nothing but words of praise for the treatment she received at their hands. Her recitation of The Newsboy and the closing tribute to "Old Glory" were very touching. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Clara Rowley and Master Leland Buzzell. Alfred C. Gaunt has been chosen as delegate to attend the council of churches at the installation of Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock as pastor of the Free church, Andover, on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Tuesday, Mar. 23—The Service Club auxiliary to Methuen Post, American Legion, held a meeting in the Legion quarters over Merrill's store, Monday evening. Five new members were added to the roll. The club will have charge of the refreshments at the coming entertainment and dance by the Legion at Nevins Memorial hall, April 5th. The club expects to hold a donation week later, when dishes and other useful articles will be received. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. At the regular meeting of the City Council held at City Hall, Monday evening at which all members of the council were present, further increases in salaries were voted on motion of Councilman Brown which was a minority report of the committee on Finance, to whom was referred the salary increase at the last meeting of the council. The vote stood four to three, Brown, Gordon, Nicholson and Ramsbotham voting for and Dowding, Riley and Hillis against the increase, which increase reverts back to March 8th.

Letter From Florida

March 19, 1920

Mr. John N. Cole,
Dear Sir:
The accompanying extracts from a letter which I recently received from my niece, Miss A. E. Dick, contain so much interesting information about Florida, that I venture to send them to you, on the chance that the readers of the Andover Townsman may also find pleasure in them. She says:
"The growth and development of Florida in the years since we were last here is amazing. We left Tampa, seven years ago, little more than a frontier town—a few nice houses and the magnificent hotel were its only promises of future glory. Now it is a city of 75,000 people, with a boulevard running five miles along the shore of Tampa Bay lined with really splendid places. A lot which was offered for sale seventeen years ago for $10,000, has since brought $250,000—a fair example of the growth of the city."
"Brick roads cross Florida now in all directions and big motor buses travel all over the state. Five ply between Tarpon Springs and Tampa each day, so we could go as often as we had an errand. When we left Tarpon we came over here by a succession of them, part of the way through the finest citrus growing section of the state. I wish you could see these groves! Yesterday we motored to Florence Villa. We drove for several miles between an unbroken succession of magnificent groves loaded with grapefruit and oranges. One grove alone covered a thousand acres and every tree was in full bearing—an unforgettable glimpse of glory. You know the grapefruit grows in clusters, ten or fifteen hanging on a central stem, hence its name, and a tree in full fruit is a wonderful sight. The trees are just beginning to bud, also, and in two weeks more both fruit and flowers will be on the same tree. At Winter Park, the other day, we were taken to see one particular tree known as the Temple tree, as it is in a grove owned by a Mr. Temple, one of the oldest, largest and finest groves about here. This tree was planted at the same time as the rest, but after it came into bearing it was found to produce oranges of a different color and shape from the rest—no one knows why. The skin is a very dark orange like that of a mandarin, and it is slightly flattened, like a mandarin in shape, but a large orange and so juicy and of such a superb flavor that it became noticed. A syndicate was formed and the tree was capitalized for $10,000. Mr. Temple receives a royalty of $5,000 yearly from it, on condition that he protects it from all meddlers—so we found it surrounded by a strong wire netting, which also covered the top, entrance being obtained through a padlocked gate. Of course, we were not admitted, but we saw a really wonderful sight, the big glossy-leaved tree absolutely loaded with the dark orange-colored globes of sweetness and the tips of the twigs beginning to bud out. These oranges bring $25.00 a box here, as against $3.00 for the ordinary fruit, but the value is in the buds, which sold last year at $2.00 each—$112,000 worth from this single tree—for propagation, each buyer having to sign a contract that no one but himself and his own family shall have access to the tree grown from his bud, for a period of twenty-five years, and that none of the fruit shall be sold. It is the only tree of its kind in Florida, except its own scions, and no one can explain the cause of the difference.

"On Tuesday we went by bus to De Land, and again I wished you could see what we saw around the dismal little town of Sanford, through which we drove. Thousands of acres for miles on each side of the road of celery, the spicy fragrance of which filled the air, and a whole train with nothing but celery loaded started for the north as we waited at the railroad crossing. It was a beautiful sight, the fields of it stretching back as far as we could see so green and fresh. That soil is wonderful. As soon as the celery is harvested, the ground is ploughed up and cow peas are planted and after that, something else, three and sometimes four crops yearly from one plot."

Yours truly,
G. M. G.

Funeral of Edward Barnard

The funeral services for Edward A. Barnard, a former Andover boy, who took his life Saturday in Boston, were held Tuesday afternoon in Mt. Auburn chapel, Boston, and attended by friends and relatives from this town. Burial was in the family lot in West Parish cemetery. Mr. Barnard was born in Frye Village fifty-nine years ago, in the old Phoebe Frye house on Poor street, and last week wrote to a friend here for a photograph of the old homestead. He was educated in the local schools and as a boy learned the lithographic business with the Forbes Company, at Chelsea and became an expert in the business. After his marriage, he with his wife conducted a high class millinery establishment on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. It was as a real estate developer that Mr. Barnard was best known. His offices were at 1783 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, and he owned a number of large apartment houses in Cambridge. The Newport Chambers, the Kensington Chambers and the Washington Trust building have been erected under his supervision. Recently he had purchased College House in Harvard square, with a view to erecting a hotel, and had been carrying on negotiations with New York theatrical promoters relative to building a theater in the rear of the proposed hotel.

In addition to his business duties, Mr. Barnard found ample opportunity to engage in municipal affairs. He was a former member of the Cambridge board of aldermen, the Cambridge common council and of the Republican city committee. His home was at 21 Frost street, Cambridge. He is survived by his widow, who is an invalid, and by two brothers, Charles of New York City and formerly owner of the Methuen Transcript; George of Methuen, and one sister, Mrs. Nellie Barnard Lowell of Methuen.

REAL GENIUSES NOT "QUEER"

For Instance, Taking Insufficient Nourishment Cannot Be Taken as Mark of Brillancy.

The legend that Meredith lived on the contents of a sack of oatmeal while he wrote his masterpieces is pure myth, writes St. John Ervine in the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian. He was particularly addicted to the pleasures of the table and could not have written his books on a diet of oatmeal. His letters are full of references to food and wine and, like Doctor Johnson, he contemplated writing a cookery book. He had the capacity, which every man of genius has, of being highly interested in the most ordinary things. It is your third-rate person who is not interested in food and drink and the common things of life. Your man of genius demands that these things shall be so attended to that he can appreciate them at their best. Moreover, since eating and drinking are necessary to all of us, he wishes them to be done in such a way that he shall not be diverted from his job by complaints of the clumsy and insufficient arrangements for them. Herbert Spencer complained of the stupid spouts that manufacturers put on jugs—so that it is impossible to pour liquid out of them without spilling it—and he went to the trouble to invent a paper fastener because he was dissatisfied with those in common use. A third-rate person would have been much too superior to think of such things.

Egyptian Women Prospering.
The fellahen of Egypt, for centuries the most ignorant and improvident of serfs, has ridden into prosperity on the tidal wave of reconstruction, and with him his long-suffering wife. Still, as in the days of Christ, one may see him on his donkey, while his wife, with her heavy burden on her head, trudges behind. Yet there is a real, if invisible change in their relations. Through the sudden rise in the price of cotton from $20 to $100 a kantar since the beginning of the war, the housewife has been enabled to make long-neglected purchases and has been enabled to display her native shrewdness in bargaining and financial matters. It is she who markets all the products of the farm.

Where the Fault Lay.

As the Irish police recruit strolled along on his first turn of night duty, loud yells of "Fire" rent the air. He bolted quickly to the spot, and found a house well alight, with a man half hanging out of an upstairs window. "Help! Help!" he yelled. "If I jump, will you catch me?" "Sure, an' Oi will!" replied the policeman readily. So the man jumped, only to crash to the ground and lie there stunned. When, a few minutes later, he recovered consciousness, he looked up at the constable reproachfully, and murmured feebly: "I thought you said you could catch me?" "Begorra!" replied the Irishman. "Oi was only waiting for yez to bounce, an' Oi'd have had yez!"—London Answers.

Are you burning coal to warm your house or outdoors? The high cost of heating the modern home, the coal shortage and increased prices means that every shovelful of coal in your furnace must give forth its house-heating equivalent.

The War Savings Division of the United States Treasury in accordance with its national thrift campaign has made the following timely suggestions on how to save fuel in heating. Keep the temperature of the house at 68 degrees. Save heat by using weather strips, storm windows, storm doors and drawing shades. Do not heat unused rooms. Cover heaters and heat carrying pipes with asbestos. In take care of the heater keep it clear from soot and ashes. Repair all leaks. Learn to use dampers effectively. The smokepipe should have two dampers, the check draft damper and the turn damper. The check draft damper controls the rate at which a fire burns; open it to check a fire; close it to increase the draft. Learn to use it so that it will do its work. If it is properly constructed and managed you can check the fire with it without opening the coal door. The turn damper fits loosely so that gases may pass off even when it is closed. In most heaters the damper should be kept closed except when starting the fire, otherwise most of the heat goes up the chimney. The damper in the coal door should be used only to let in air to cool some gases that are formed, especially when soft coal is used. The ash-pit damper admits air necessary for the ignition of the coal or wood. Regulate the air supply by the damper—not by opening the ash-pit door. In building a fire close dampers, remove ashes, put in crumpled newspaper, cover with kindlings laid crosswise, add a thin layer of coal, open the ash pit and smoke pipe damper and light the fire. For good heating, regular care of a fire is needed, attend it from two to four times a day. In adding a large amount of coal, leave part of the glowing fire exposed. Clean the ash pits daily. Keep the fire pot full. Better heat is obtained if the fuel is kept even with the fire door in front and a little higher in the back. Fuel saved is money saved and money grows when put into War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates.

BALLARDVALE

Special services will be held at all the local churches on Sunday, it being Palm Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Clinton T. Farmer of Boston are visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Wintringham.

Hugh McGovern purchased some horses for his ice business at the Hanson horse sale in Lowell on Wednesday.

Mrs. Lillian Birch of Rosindale spent several days of the week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Louis G. Buck of Marlard road.

Joseph E. Stott entertained the members of the young people's choir at his home on High street on Wednesday evening. The Easter music was practiced, after which games were played and refreshments served.

The men of the Congregational church will hold a supper in the vestry on Wednesday evening from 6.00 to 8.00 o'clock. George Shaw is the capable manager of this affair and as he is experienced in household arts, the indications are that the supper will be good. The public is cordially invited to attend. An admission will be charged.

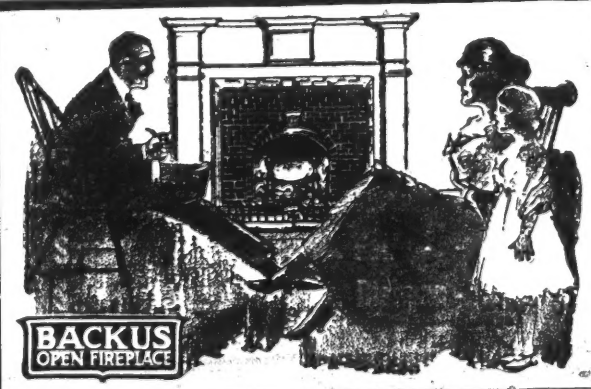

The special Evangelist meetings which Rev. C. E. Wintringham has been conducting throughout the past week will be continued every night until Easter Sunday. Dr. Mitchell, professor at the Boston University School of Theology, will speak at one of the sessions, the latter part of the week. The meetings have been and promise to continue highly interesting and beneficial.

The quarterly meeting of the Andover Christian Endeavor Union will be held at the South church on Monday evening. The speaker will be Rev. Francis L. Cooper of the Lawrence Street Congregational church and his topic will be, "The Boiler, the Cylinder and the Safety Valve." All members of the local society are urged to attend. Plans have been made to take the 6.30 o'clock train.

The local Congregational church was represented by the pastor, Rev. Augustus H. Fuller, and by Daniel H. Poor as a delegate at the council called to install the Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock as pastor of the Free church, Andover, on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Rev. Mr. Fuller was on the committee of three which was appointed to draw up resolutions on Rev. E. A. Wilson, who has faithfully served the church for the past thirty years.

We trust there are none who failed to hear and heed the call of "Come out, come out, Quick!" which sounded up and down our streets last Monday night, summoning everyone to witness the marvelous display of northern lights, the most spectacular in many years. Just before eight o'clock, no less than five good friends in person or by telephone, called the Townsman so that she might not miss the sight.

The long fingers of light were streaming through the heavens, in every quarter strangely enough except the north. The moon just setting at that hour, added to the beauty of the display. A little later a vast curtain of light vibrated and shook across the northern sky, white or faintly green for the most part, but carrying opalescent colors on its edge, and for several minutes there was a brilliant display in every quarter of the heavens.

The brilliant Orion paled to a mere ghost of his usual dazzling self; Sirius, Castor and Pollux were seen as through a haze; Jupiter alone shining with undiminished brilliancy, sailing high and apparently the target for the shafts of light which streamed upward from every direction. Until midnight a misty light suffused the sky, the display continuing intermittently, like white flames bursting forth from the dying embers of a universal conflagration.

In spite of the lie which last Saturday's snowstorm apparently gave to our remarks about spring, the weather of this week has corroborated them. There are new signs of spring every day—the liquid notes of the cheerful song sparrow, and robins, not merely one, but flocks of fine fat fellows looking for the early worm, a green haze on a few well kept lawns, a distinct swelling of the elm buds, and marbles, tops and bouncing balls in the hands of the school children.

One of our enterprising meat dealers when asked whether or not he was going to feature any special bargains for "Save money on meat week," which is to begin in Massachusetts on March 29th, replied that he was always ready to co-operate in any such movement which was desired by the general public.

On being questioned further, he admitted that he was very skeptical about a general demand for the less expensive cuts reducing the price of meat, that it would undoubtedly have a tendency to increase the price of cuts much in demand, while the reduction in price of the choicer cuts would be most problematical.

He also remarked that purchasers who once bought stew meat, now rejoicing in a full pay envelope, would continue to buy sirloins and chops because they preferred them and could afford them, while those who bought shins, rounds and forequarters would probably do so from necessity rather than choice.

Many persons from Andover have attended the great automobile show in Boston and there are numerous purchasers of new cars.

Someone has remarked on the absence of items concerning this once fruitful topic. To buy or own a car is nowadays so common a thing that the circumstance is little more worthy of note than the purchase of a new cooking range, and comment on the fact almost as obsolete as the joke about the man who, when embarrassed at not finding sufficient funds in his pocket, bolstered up his financial reputation with the remark that he must have left his purse at home on the piano.

The Townsman

Sweetness of Revenge.

Timothy Brown was a commercial traveler and a valuable asset to his employers.

On one of his periodical rounds he included in his list of calls a certain yarn merchant, Jonas Perkins by name—a crotchety, ill-natured individual—who invariably treated Timothy with the greatest of discourtesy, and who on more than one occasion had torn his card up in his presence and thrown it on the floor. A becomes a good commercial traveler, however, Timothy was undaunted and vowed to be revenged.

In due course he called on his friend again and presented his card. "Hullo!" shouted old Perkins, giving the card the usual wrench. "What the—?" But here he interrupted him self with a yell of pain, accompanied by a miniature war dance.

Timothy's card was made of enamelled tin!—London Tit-Bits.

Power of Suggestion.

"I thought Crimson Gulch had given up all its wild ways," exclaimed the visitor.

"It has," said Cactus Joe.

"Then what is that faro layout doing down the street?"

"You mean in the savings bank? That was a bright idea of the cashier's to encourage thrift. It makes it seem easier and more natural for the boys to come in and leave their money, though it's kind of hard to convince 'em they can get it back whenever they call for it."

Turn Out Miles of Stamps.

The 40,000,000 postage stamps made, counted and packed for shipment, each day in the factory of the United States bureau of printing and engraving would make a stamp chain long enough to cover more than 700 miles.

INSTALLATION OF PASTOR

missing of a pastor and his re-election as a pastor emeritus on salary. The Council voted unanimously to dissolve the pastoral relations between Mr. Wilson and the Free Church and to approve his election as pastor emeritus on salary, also to approve the choice of Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock as pastor of the church.

After these matters were arranged the program for the evening offered by the churches was then adopted and carried out, beginning at half-past seven.

The installation of Arthur S. Wheelock as pastor of the Free Christian Church which took place on Wednesday evening was an event of general interest to the community as was evidenced by the large congregation which filled the auditorium.

Rev. Arthur S. Beale, scribe, read the records of the Council, including the following resolutions which had been unanimously adopted in appreciation of Mr. Wilson's great service.

"In approving the severance of the pastoral relation which has existed between the Rev. Frederick A. Wilson and the Free Christian church of Andover during the past thirty years, the Council wishes to make suitable recognition of this long and fruitful and happy ministry, achieving a record which cannot but yield to pastor and people alike, as they look back upon it, an enduring satisfaction. It would give thanks to God for these thirty years of united and happy service.

In reviewing this notable pastorate we are grateful to acknowledge that it has been to the loyal support and devotion of the men and women of the Free Christian Church united with the gifts and graces of their leader that its harmony and prolonged success have been one.

In the conduct of the manifold activities of the church, in the erection of the present edifice on a new site in 1908, in the recent organization and incorporation of the church, throughout all the years Mr. Wilson has shown himself to be a wise counselor, a tactful and patient leader and a capable administrator. His services also as a public spirited citizen have called forth repeated expressions of appreciation from his fellow townsmen.

A man of unaffected sincerity and simplicity of life, of warm sympathy with his people in their needs and sorrows, of generous impulses—qualities which have endeared him to his people—combined with his untiring effort to keep in personal touch with them all, Mr. Wilson has embodied the marks of the ideal pastor.

In the pulpit it has been his aim and joy to set forth the message of the Evangel in such a way as to encourage and inspire Christian living day by day. His knowledge and love of music have enabled him to plan and provide for the services of public worship.

The sympathetic and cultivated help of Mrs. Wilson, throughout this ministry has been an important factor in the influence for good.

In this hour laden with tender memories for pastor and people, we wish to express to them both our warm affection and to testify to the honor in which we hold them. The Council wishes to record its deep appreciation of the church's action in making generous provision for its retiring leader in the position of pastor emeritus, now that he can no longer carry the heavy burden of its full care, and it is happy that the church is to continue to enjoy his presence with it and his help in various ways.

And finally we desire to record our continued gratitude for his fidelity and his friendship in the fellowship of the members and churches of our Association.

AUGUSTUS H. FULLER
 NEWMAN MATTHEWS
 M. W. STACKPOLE

The sermon was preached by Rev. Jason Noble Pierce of Dorchester, once chaplain of the Second Division in which Mr. Wheelock served as chaplain for several months. Taking as his text the words of Christ found in the Gospel according to John, "It is expedient for you that I go away," the burden of his message was the advantage to be gained by the individual Christian in carrying on the work of Christ without His visible presence and that the church as an organization was to stand in His place with the pastor as a leader.

Prof. Daniel Evans, D. D., teacher and life-long friend of Mr. Wheelock, gave the charge to the pastor, admonishing him to live much with books, cultivating his mind and increasing his store of knowledge, but to cultivate his heart as well, by mingling with his people that he might be able to present the truth to them, touched with life; to remember that he was a citizen of the town and should endeavor to labor not only for the parish, but for the community so that as student, pastor, citizen and man of God he might fulfill the obligations of his position.

In giving the charge to the people, Rev. E. A. Wilson suggested that he was not the ideal person to give advice on how to be a good parishioner as that was a new task to him and something which he had yet to learn. His advice was summed up in the one word, "Loyalty," loyalty to their pastor, loyalty to their church and loyalty to Jesus Christ.

The right hand of fellowship was offered by Rev. Arthur Stanley Beale, who referred to the strange coincidence that they were both named after an eminent Dean of the English Church, Arthur Penrhyn Stanley.
